

Skin Care-Inspired Ingredients Shaping Hair Care Innovation

Key Market Trends and Opportunities in Hair Care Product Development

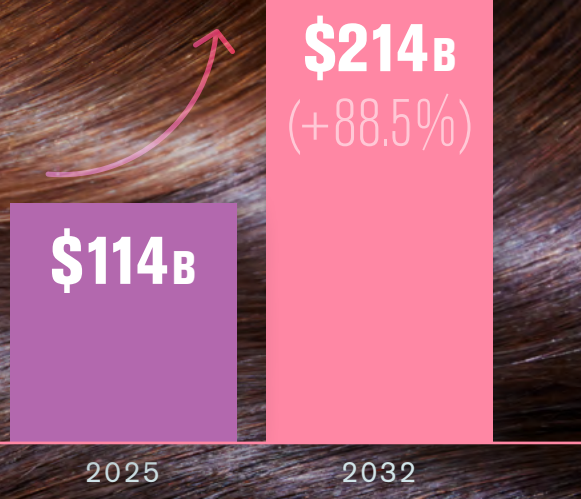

Seasonal shifts present the perfect time for a fresh start—not just for your skin, but for your scalp and hair too! As consumers continue to prioritize wellness and ingredient transparency, hair care formulations are embracing skin care-grade ingredients to support scalp health and hair vitality. Our product development experts break down this evolving trend—highlighting key market dynamics and major opportunities shaping hair care product development this season.

The Next Frontier: Elevating Hair Care with Skin Care Science

Continues to gain momentum

THE RISE OF SKIN CARE-INFUSED HAIR FORMULATIONS

The trend of applying skin care principles to hair care—known as the "skinification" of hair—continues to gain momentum, with product innovations and portfolio expansion driving innovation in scalp and hair health.

~ $214 BILLION HAIR CARE MARKET GROWTH

The global hair care market is anticipated to grow from USD 113.93 billion in 2025 to USD 213.47 billion by 2032.¹

Skin care now goes beyond just the face. People are using the same kinds of products for their body, scalp, and even teeth. More people want products that not only make them look good but also make them feel healthier. Things like body lotions with the same fancy ingredients as face creams, or shampoos that take care of the scalp, are getting really popular.²*
